

100% Fall Prevention Program

The Brown & Root Braun 100% Fall Prevention Program is a formalized approach used in the identification and elimination of worker exposure to falls on construction sites. Its aim is to erect steel for process plants without accidents due to falls. Through the utilization of technology such as manually actuated pin extractors, take-up reels, and body harnesses, the manner and sequence that structural steel is erected and large process vessels are dressed out and installed has resulted in a safer work environment and improved productivity and quality. The program has been implemented on a number of Brown & Root Braun's projects.
