- Acknowledge and actively monitor the concerns of all legitimate stakeholders
- Stakeholders in particular CSOs can, and would, play dual roles as critics and allies or partners
- Listen to and openly communicate with stakeholders

Engaging Stakeholders

Multi-stakeholder engagement at governance and country levels

- 32 observers - balanced representation

Governance level

- Representatives of civil society, private sector, and indigenous peoples participate in CIF Governance Committee meetings as active observers.
- Observers identified through a self-selection process

Country level

- Country-led consultations with other development partners, civil society, private sector, and indigenous peoples in developing and implementing plans and projects

Stakeholder Engagement at all stages of the CIF Programming Process

Expression of Interest

- Expressions of interest from eligible governments are invited via the Executive Directors offices of the MDBs.

Selection of Pilots

- A group of independent experts recommends a group of pilots, based on approved selection criteria, which are then approved by the governing body.

Joint Mission

- Once the selected countries confirm their interested in participating in the program, the governments invite the MDBs to a joint mission or series of missions designed to develop the investment plans. Preparation grants are available to countries upon request.

Development of Investment Plan

- Countries continue to develop and finalize investment plans in consultation with stakeholders.

Endorsement of Investment Plan

- The Committee or Sub-Committee reviews and may endorse the plan, which allows countries to move forward with developing the investments indicated in the plan.

Development of Projects/Programs

- Once the plan is endorsed, the country and MDBs further develop projects to be submitted for approval by the governing body.

Approval of Projects/Programs

- Prior to MDB board approval, the country and MDB submit the project to the Committee or Sub-Committee for approval of CIF funding.

Project/Program Implementation

- Once approved by the CIF governing body and the MDB board, the projects enter the implementation stage.

Monitoring and Evaluation

- Projects and investments are monitored and evaluated, with appropriate sharing of results, outcomes, and lessons learned.
