THEME 1: LINKING CLIMATE SCIENCE TO CLIMATE POLICY AND PRACTICE
10:45 – 12:00	Plenary Address
	Overview of the Challenges and Opportunities for Linking Climate Science to Policy and Practice DAVID CORBELLI, International Development Manager, UK MET Office
	Decision Support Systems for Climate Policy and Practice RUPA MUKERJI, Co-Head Advisory Services, Helvetas Swiss Inter-Cooperation
	In this plenary address, speakers will discuss the challenges as well as the opportunities for effective dialogue between climate scientists, policy-makers, and local communities. Issues discussed in the course of the plenary address and parallel dialogue sessions include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What are the recent developments in the field of climate change projections?</li> <li>• What can we expect from the forthcoming IPCC's Sixth Assessment Report in terms of the climate science and climate change projections?</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• How can climate change information be accessible and understandable to non-climate scientists while preserving scientific credibility?</li> <li>• How can climate change information generally formulated at broad spatial scales be communicated to ensure relevance at local levels?</li> <li>• What are the benefits of producing climate change projections from more and more models and scenarios?</li> <li>• What kind of climate change information policy-makers and local communities need to enable the development of long-term resilience strategies while guiding current investment plans?</li> <li>• How to respond to the perceived wide range of uncertainty associated with climate change projections?</li> </ul> Moderator: XIANFU LU, Senior Climate Change Specialist (Adaptation), ADB
12:00 – 13:00
13:00 – 15:00	Parallel Dialogue Sessions
Dialogue Session 1.1 Science and Policy in Action: Investing in Climate Resilient Infrastructure The world currently spends approximately $3 trillion per year on infrastructure. An additional $3 trillion on average per year is required until 2030. Ensuring the climate resilience of this infrastructure requires effective dialogue between science scientists, policy-makers, and civil society. Moderator: RAUL ALFARO-PELICO, Lead Climate Change Specialist, World Bank From Disaster to Climate Science to National Planning: Learning from Haiyan THELMA A. CINCO, Assistant Weather Services Chief, Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA), Philippines Linking Climate Science to Climate Policy and Practice in Bangladesh SHAMSHUR KHAN, Deputy Secretary, Ministry of Environment and Forests, Bangladesh Multiple Uses of Climate Information and Hydromet Forecasting Systems in Climate Resilient Program in Madagascar	Dialogue Session 1.2 Climate Resilient Livelihoods: Smart Agriculture and Water Resource Management Effective water resource management contributes to climate smart agriculture, secure livelihoods and food security. An exchange of experiences and perspectives on community-owned, cost-effective solutions will promote reliable water access and support smart agricultural approaches. Moderator: RUTH BEUKMAN, PPCR Learning Partner Climate Resilient Livelihoods in Cambodia: Science and Policies MEAS SOPHAL, Deputy Director General, General Directorate of Administration for Nature Conservation and Protection, Cambodia DAN BAKOYE CHAIBOU, PPCR Strategic Coordination Unit, Ministry of Planning, Niger Discussants: ISIDRO FOTE, M&amp;E Specialist - Ministry for Land, Environment and Rural Development, Mozambique WINSOME TOWNSEND, Project manager Adaptation Programme, Jamaica	Dialogue Session 1.3 Innovations and Technologies in Support of a Climate Resilient Blue Economy Anticipating and adapting to the impacts of climate change, and the use of the best available science, data, technology and innovation is essential to ensuring the climate resilience of the blue economy. Moderator: GERARD ALLENG, Senior Climate Change Specialist, Inter-American Development Bank Innovations and Technologies in Support of a Climate Resilient Blue Economy ASHA SINGH, Director, Environmental Governance Consulting PPCR: Enhancing the Climate Resilience of Coastal Resources and Communities-Samoa's Experience JEAN VILLAMU, Principal Officer, Ministry of Finance, Samoa Discussion

	MAMY NIRINA RAZAKANAIVO, Head of CPGU, Madagascar  Discussion	LUIS RIVAS, Technical sub- coordinator, PPCR Honduras  Discussion
15:00 – 15:30
15:30 – 17:00	Knowledge Fair 1 Linking Climate Science to Climate Policy and Practice Engage in lively discussions on achievements, challenges and best practice on strengthening the science-policy interface, framed by experiences from Zambia, Cambodia and the Caribbean region. Participants will be encouraged to work collaboratively and think creatively about how to address real-life problems, and scale-up potential solutions.  Facilitator: PPCR Learning Partner

Tuesday May 22, 2018

Master of Ceremony Day 2: Zafar Makhmudov, Project Coordinator, ELMARL, PPCR Tajikistan, Committee for Environment Protection under the Government of Tajikistan
THEME 2: BUILDING CLIMATE RESILIENCE WITH PEOPLE AND COMMUNITIES
8:30 – 9:30	Plenary Address Community Based Adaptation: Selected Lessons from the Front Lines SALEEMUL HUQ Director, International Centre for Climate Change and Development  Building Resilience and Adaptation to Climate Extremes and Disasters LAURA MATTIOLI, Livelihoods Adviser-Resilience, DFID, UK  Moderator: MATTHEW WILLIAM HARRIS, M&E and Supervision Officer, African Development Bank  Local communities around the world have long been exposed to the impacts of climate change. For many decades, these communities have had to adapt and enhance their resilience to the impacts of climate change. As a result, there is now a wealth of experience which can inform the nature and design of future adaptation efforts. This plenary address discusses selected lessons learned from recent adaptation efforts undertaken by local communities around the world.
9:30 – 11:00	Parallel Dialogue Sessions Dialogue Session 2.1 Gender and Institutional Development for Transformational Change: PPCR Programming in Adaptive Social Protection and Disaster Risk Reduction  This dialogue session will highlight how gender-responsive adaptive social protection and disaster risk reduction operations can increase household and area resilience; enhance women's skills and participation in local adaptation planning and climate leadership; and enhance national approaches to resilience.  Moderator: ANNE KURIAKOSE, Senior Social Development Specialist, CIF  Introduction to Gender and Risk in the Context of Climate Change ANNE KURIAKOSE, Senior Social Development Specialist, CIF
	Dialogue Session 2.2 Increasing the Use of Community and Ecosystem-Based Adaptation Options: What's Needed?  Community and ecosystem-based adaptation options allegedly have multiple benefits other than solely building climate resilience. Yet, they do not necessarily have the favor of policy-makers. This session discusses the nature of as well as country experiences with these adaptation options and assesses opportunities for their expanded use.  Moderator: CHARLES RODGERS, Senior Advisor, Asian Development Bank  A Primer on the Nature of Ecosystem-Based Adaptation SHAUN MARTIN, Senior Director, Climate Change Adaptation and Resilience, WWF

11:00 – 11:15
11:15 – 12:00	Knowledge Fair 2 Building Climate Resilience with People and Communities Experience the challenging and rewarding journeys toward people-first resilience of fellow PPCR countries. Problem solve with colleagues that have profound experiences and learn the 'know how' of resilience building not to be found in text books in an open exchange of opinions that will guide your community resilience processes Facilitator: PPCR Learning Partner
12:00 – 13:00
THEME 3: FINANCING CLIMATE RESILIENCE
13:00 – 14:00	Plenary Address Identifying and Addressing the Gaps in Climate Finance HELENA WRIGHT Senior Policy Advisor, E3G Green Climate Fund Financing for Climate Resilience: Status, Pipeline Development and Complementarity JASON SPENSLEY, Senior Specialist, Green Climate Fund Providing climate funding in the form of concessional loans or grants, is not the only way of closing financing gaps. In some circumstances, it may not even be the most effective way. Thoughts also need to be given to the reasons why financing is constrained, and the selection of the appropriate form of financial support should be informed by the nature of these constraints. There will be instances where other measures or vehicles are more effective than traditional forms of climate finance. Hence, a better understanding is needed not just of potential financing gaps but also of the underlying causes of these gaps. Moderator: JUSSI TAPIO LEHMUSVAARA, Operations Officer, IFC
14:00 – 15:30	Parallel Dialogue Sessions

	Dialogue Session 3.1 Achieving climate resilience with the support of public sector financing: Constraints and opportunities Public sector is an important source of climate resilience financing. This type of support can take multiple forms and when designed appropriately can be an effective means of financing. Moderator: JAY ROOP, Senior Climate Change Specialist, Asian Development Bank Building Institutional Capacity for Climate Finance Coordination in the Kyrgyz Republic NURGUL ESEMANANOVA, Climate Finance Officer, EBRD Strengthening Institutional Capacity for Climate Financing CAROL MWAPE ZULU, Environmental and Social Inclusion Manager, Zambia PPCR Program Convergence Budgeting System in the Philippines ROLANDO U. TOLEDO, Director, Fiscal Planning and Reforms Bureau, Department of Budget and Management, Philippines Discussion	Dialogue Session 3.2 Exploring innovative sources of financing for climate resilience: Constraints, opportunities, and enabling framework Financing climate adaptation at scale is an unresolved problem. Private investment will narrow the finance gap but lags behind public investments. Brainstorming modalities for vulnerable communities to finance income-producing activities, build up assets and protect themselves against risks, will promote viable solutions. Moderator: BELYNDA PETRIE, PPCR Learning Partner Financial Institutions as Agents of Change: The Case of the Tajikistan Climate Resilience Financing Facility ZAFAR MAKHMUDOV, Head, Project Implementation Unit Committee for Environmental Protection under the Government of the Republic of Tajikistan Climate Resilient Investment in the Latin American Coffee Sector RICK VAN DER KAMP, Senior Operations Officer – Agribusiness, IFC FONERWA – the Rwanda Green Fund BRIGHT NTARE, Program Manager, Rwanda Green Fund Decentralised Climate Finance in Africa Adriana Quevedo, Senior Research Officer, Overseas Development Institute Private Sector Climate Response in the Philippines CRISANTO FRIANEZA, Secretary General, Chamber of Commerce and Industry Philippines Discussion
15:30 – 16:00
16:00 – 17:00	Knowledge Fair 3 Financing Climate Resilience Move from one level of climate finance readiness to another through the experiences of Mozambique, Tajikistan and Jamaica. Use this relaxed, fun setting to improve the effectiveness and quality of your work toward increasing access to reliable finance for resilience. New relationships will be forged through interrogating the experiences of others. Facilitator: PPCR Learning Partner

THEME 4: MONITORING, REPORTING, EVALUATION AND LEARNING TO BUILD RESILIENCE
8:30 – 9:30	Plenary Address Programmatic Approach Evaluation Report: Findings and Recommendations            KOUASSI EMMANUEL KOUADIO            Monitoring and Evaluation Officer, CIF Panelists:            CHAIBOU DAN BAKOYE, M and E Expert, National Coordination Unit, PPCR Niger            LE-ANN ROPER, Sustainable Development Planning Officer, Planning Institute of Jamaica            ANNA MARIA KAWIMBE CHUNGA, National Coordinator, PPCR Zambia The use of a programmatic approach is often cited as a distinct feature and comparative advantage of the CIF. The CIF is the only climate fund to date to prioritize a programmatic approach as its primary model of delivery. The overall objective of this session is to allow panelists and participants, using their country context and experience, to openly discuss and provide their insights on the initial findings and recommendations of the first recently completed Evaluation of the CIF Programmatic Approach. Moderator: JOSEPH BRYAN DICKMAN, Senior Evaluation Officer, CIF AU
